Network Diagram

The critical path for the diagram is the path starting with Chat Backend
To keep the sprint on schedule, we split the group to work on each of the 4 branches of the diagram. This made the most sense since none of the branches interacted with each other. We were unable to finish the Chat branch due to an early delay.Our initial idea for how we wanted to do the chat was causing problems and we were having difficulties making it work, which was an immediate progress dampener. Then, when we had decided on a different way of implementing it, everyone was concerned with other school work due to the end of the semester approaching. This resulted in there not being much time left to finish what we had initially planned.